About

Mainstreet Microfinance Bank Limited is a Nigerian microfinance institution that provides savings, loans, and other financial services to individuals, low-income earners, and micro, small, and medium-sized businesses. The bank focuses particularly on customers in the informal sector, including small business owners, traders, artisans, salary earners, and entrepreneurs who may have limited access to conventional commercial-bank financing.

The institution was incorporated in November 2008 as Afribank Microfinance Bank Limited and later adopted the Mainstreet Microfinance Bank name. Although some profiles cite 2013 as its founding year, the bank's official history and corporate materials identify 2008 as the year of incorporation. It operates as a private limited-liability company licensed by the Central Bank of Nigeria to provide microfinance-banking services.

Mainstreet's core business is the provision of small and medium-sized loans for personal needs, business working capital, asset acquisition, education, and business expansion. Its loan products include SME loans, payday loans, education loans, and other facilities designed for individuals and entrepreneurs. The bank assesses loan applications based on factors such as the borrower's income, business activity, repayment capacity, inventory, and location.

The institution also mobilises deposits through savings and current accounts. Customers can use these accounts to build savings, conduct transactions, and establish the financial history often required to access credit. In line with the Central Bank of Nigeria's microfinance-banking framework, licensed microfinance banks may accept deposits from individuals, groups, and organisations while providing credit and other approved financial services.

To empower Nigerian micro-entrepreneurs through accessible and responsible financial services.
