About

Spectranet is a Nigerian broadband internet service provider specialising in fixed wireless 4G LTE connectivity for residential, small business, and enterprise customers. The company was awarded a licence by the Nigerian Communications Commission (NCC) in 2009 and is widely recognised as one of the pioneers of 4G LTE internet service in Nigeria. [spectranet.com]

Headquartered in Lagos, Spectranet has developed its business around delivering internet access through its own wireless network rather than through conventional fixed-line infrastructure. Its service portfolio includes home broadband, office internet, WiFi routers, and MiFi devices, with products designed to support streaming, online collaboration, remote work, and other data-intensive use cases.

The company has established a strong presence in selected urban markets, with coverage commonly associated with Lagos, Abuja, Ibadan, and Port Harcourt. Publicly available company information indicates that Spectranet’s network is intended to provide broader signal penetration within covered areas, making it suitable for dense residential estates, student accommodation, and SME environments where dependable broadband is required.

Spectranet’s value proposition centres on affordability, reliability, and speed. It has positioned itself as an alternative to traditional broadband options, particularly in locations where fibre availability is limited or installation costs are high. The company markets plans and devices for households and businesses seeking stable connectivity without the complexity of conventional fixed-line deployment.
